Tim Ummel called in to SmallCapVoice.com to provide the IZNN shareholders and the SCV listening audience with an overview of the business model and markets the Company operates in. The IZON Digital Media Network operates within the "Digital Out-of-Home" vertical. As advertisers look for new and innovative ways to reach consumers, IZON has built proprietary entertainment & media platforms that reaches areas where the consumer already exists. For example, IZON is a leader in on-course technology & GPS services to golf course operators and golfers. They have created a proprietary and private media platform that connects highly valued luxury consumers with Advertisers in a very targeted manner on the golf course.

Ummel, stated, "Our efforts are focused on verticals where a defined user base already exists and can be engaged utilizing our digital media network and devices. Now more than ever, the "fight for eyeballs" is crossing every sector of communication and media with tens of billions being spent by some of the biggest media companies in the world to get their piece of the estimated 11 hours a day the average adult spends watching digital media," stated Ummel. "That makes this a great time to go on the record with the knowledgeable listeners at SmallCapVoice.com. We have an extremely compelling story to tell right now given the tremendous progress we have already made and the important steps that lie in front of us as we break into this enormous market opportunity in our core competency."
